Welcome to the Next Level

Taking the next step is no easy task.

You're hot and sweaty, you look at how high the next movement must be. You've come so far so quickly, and everywhere you look things are changing. Sometimes you'd like to just pause, breathe and stay still for a year. And then, just as you're about to rest easy, you take the next step.

New residence hall, master's programs, new president and new years all add up to pushing Campbellsville to the next step. We're always looking for the next level — the next precipice from which to shine.

And so, the stories of Campbellsville in the last years of the millennium begin to unfold as we chronicle them for you. Inside this yearbook are tales of tears and laughter, joy and disappointment, love and victory. Remember these days as you travel on from your Southern Baptist university in the center of Kentucky, U.S.A. This is where you learned, when you studied, where you lived.

This is where you took the next step.

Welcome Week

Campbellsville University wastes no time to give its students a chance to come together, have fun and start to develop meaningful relationships. Each year the first week of school is kicked off by Welcome Week, a series of events for the students to just kick back and have fun.

This year, on the first Monday of the semester, the courtyard was host to a Welcome Back Dance. Past students are given a chance to get together with old friends, while the freshmen get a chance to mingle with their new classmates.

In a continuing tradition, the Amazing Hypnotist Fredrick Winters made his appearance Tuesday in the University Theater. Students are chosen out of the audience and brought on stage to perform for their friends while in a hypnotic state. This was the fourth year he has come to Campbellsville.

The World's Largest Twister Game was Wednesday in the Student Activities Center. Using Twister boards donated by the Milton-Bradley Company, students showed up to participate in this play time.

Thursday was a rough and tough game of Paintball at Greensburg. Students suited up and shot at each other in order to gain victory early on in the competition.

A cookout was Friday for the freshmen to get out in the air and socialize.

Freshmen get game

Freshman Week

Take five nights in one week, add a few events from SGA, place a slave auction and a dating game in the middle, and throw in an entire class of freshmen — what do you get? Campbellsville University's annual Freshman Week!

This year's week-long extravaganza began on Tuesday with the Freshman Auction. In this event, freshmen are sold to upperclassmen in order to raise money for school organizations. The highest selling student this year was Ken Pruitt from Louisville, Ky.

A new addition to the week of festivities was Game Show Night on Wednesday, which featured games of Family Feud and the Newly Wed Game. Winners were not only treated to the applause of their peers for winning their matches, but also treated to donated gift certificates from several local restaurants.

On Thursday, another contest, Singled Out, took place in the courtyard as students of Campbellsville "strutted their stuff" in order to win a dinner date with either freshman Amy Graham or Jeremy Fredricks. The contestants had to do several activities to win including reciting a poem, dancing and massaging Fredricks' feet.

Friday concluded the week with a campus-wide game of Hide and Seek, proving that just because we're in college, it doesn't mean we can't play kids' games.

Above: Devin Bishop hosts Singled Out as he points out the good qualities of freshman Amy Graham. Jamie Durham watches as one of the organizers of the event. Graham was blindfolded and chose her "date" by having the contestants perform for her and answer questions.

At left: From left, Jamie Montgomery, Kandice Lanham, Adrienne Nichols, Ginger Shely, Allison Vincent, Angel Moore, Jessica McFarlin, Laurie Hill and Dana Jenkins were contestants in the Singled Out game show. The couple was joined for a brief period of holy matrimony while they tried to guess their 10-minute mate's likes and dislikes. Despite their efforts, they did not win. ## Homecoming Weekend

Homecoming Weekend is one of the most celebrated events on campus. This year's theme was "Where Would We Be Without You?" The activities began Friday, Oct. 15 with events planned for alumni and veterans. Friday afternoon, the Tiger soccer team faced Marion College, losing 2-1.

Friday night's activities included the annual Alumni Banquet, with Mamie McCullough as guest speaker, and a pep rally for alumni, parents and students at the Clock Tower.

Saturday's festivities began with the Car Show on Stapp Lawn. Booths sponsored by student organizations could be seen spread across the courtyard for Homecoming Fest with some clubs offering games, while others sold items like key chains or chili to raise money.

Saturday also included the Tiger alumni baseball game, hot air balloon rides, many reunions and receptions and the Parade of Decades.

At 1:30 p.m., the Chorale alumni sang the National Anthem to kick off the game between the Tigers and Belhaven. The Tigers lost 34-32.

After the game, more reunions and receptions were held for SGA members, football players and academic divisions, followed by the Homecoming Dance that night sponsored by the SGA.

'Where would we be?'

Homecoming court and dance

This year's Homecoming theme was "Where Would We Be Without You?" In addition to all of the various events held especially for alumni and to promote school spirit, every year a Homecoming queen is elected and a dance is held.

During the half-time show of the Homecoming football game, the 1999 Homecoming queen was announced. Amy Beck, representing Baptist Student Union, was crowned queen by Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, and the 1998 queen, Miranda Kassin. There was a tie for first runner-up between Holly Hall, representing the Psychology Club, and Jessica Smith, representing the junior class. Shauna Price, representing North Hall, was named second runner-up. Sarah Beth Finney was selected as freshman attendant.

Other members of the Homecoming Court included Tara Taylor, representing Fellowship of Christian Athletes; Jackie Guerin, representing the Residence Village; Krista Kingery, representing Harlequins; and Amie Rose Johnson, representing Social Workers in Touch Can Help.

The Homecoming Court was elected by votes from students after receiving nominations from various clubs and organizations on campus.

Following the Homecoming Game and festivities, SGA hosted the Homecoming Dance, a chance for the students to get together and have fun after all the festivities of the week-end. The dance, which was open to students and alumni, was in the Student Activities Center. A large number of people attended the dance.

'We are family'

Family Weekend

One thing comes to mind when we think of Campbellsville University, and that's family. Campbellsville University started off the weekend of the first home game with the annual Family Weekend. This year's theme was "We Are Family." Family Weekend was hosted by the Office of Alumni and Parent Relations and Parents Council.

The goal of Family Weekend was to give parents and students an opportunity to become better acquainted with other parents and students.

This year's Family Weekend consisted of several events for students and their families. Campbellsville University kicked the weekend off Friday, Sept. 25 with the family picnic, which was followed by the "Biggest Pep Rally Campbellsville University Has Ever Seen." The Dance for the Ages followed.

Saturday's events started off with a tailgate party, overlooking Tiger Field, and the first home football game of the season against Austin Peay, which included a pre-game show with the Band Parents' Recognition. This was the biggest Family Weekend so far with more than 500 people in attendance.

Memories in the making

Residence life and student activities

What can one say about living on campus at Campbellsville University? Not only are there many advantages, but it is an experience that you can never forget. Students are constantly in the process of making memories.

Residence hall life is a constant state of excitement. Living in the residence halls provides you with the opportunity to meet new people and gain lifelong friendships. Whether you live in the luxury of South East, the brotherhood of Broadway, the friendliness of Stapp Hall, or the independence of the Village, the experiences that you have living in the residence halls are ones that are sure to remain with you forever.

Not only is living on campus full of creating memories, but student activities provided by Campbellsville also have a role in making a mark in each student's life. Events are constantly being planned to involve students and introduce them to each other. Most students participate in one of the clubs or organizations on campus.

Weekly meetings for each organization and involvement in club activities are offered, as well as other events, such as the dances or intramural activities, to encourage students to become more involved.

No matter where you find yourself at Campbellsville, there is always something going on, someone new to meet and some memory being made.

Campbellsville University continues its efforts to improve the looks of the campus. To begin the year, the Residence Village was completed. Six students live in each apartment with a private-style atmosphere, with the Village housing a total of 90 students. Improvements were made on University Drive to make it a tree-lined boulevard and a new addition was added to Carter Hall.

While all these new projects were being accomplished, there were also several maintenance projects that students worked on to keep other facilities on campus looking good.

International students

Campbellsville University's variety of international students have stories they are proud to tell others.

"The university has a large number of international students who come every year to join the family atmosphere on campus," said Richard Blake, a sophomore from London, England.

The largest community of international students comes from a partnership between Campbellsville University and several Baptist high schools in Brazil. The Brazilian group is composed of 39 students.

Also included in the international population at Campbellsville University are 61 students from Albania, Bahamas, Bulgaria, Canada, England, Estonia, Guatemala, Japan, Puerto Rico, Romania, Sudan, South Africa, Trinidad and Tobago, and Zambia, who are recognized by their cultures and different ways of speaking and interacting with the American culture.

"The variety of cultures represented on campus creates an atmosphere unlike any other campus I have visited," said Katie Wallen, a junior from Nashville, Tenn.

'One Shining Star'

Christmas Celebration

The 1999 Christmas Celebration created memories with the theme "One Shining Star." Friends and family celebrated the holiday season with students, faculty and staff from Campbellsville University.

Many students and others participated in the program. Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, welcomed all attendees before the dinner began. Carter participated in the celebration by reading a Christmas story and sharing his thoughts and memories on the real meaning of Christmas. Jeff Todd and Company began the night's entertainment by presenting an interpretation of a familiar Christmas story entitled "The Night Before Christmas at Dear

Ole CU."

Steven Bishop, featured as "The Shining Star," and others presented the Christmas Story.

The night's event was also filled with memorable and traditional Christmas songs. Performances included the Children's Choir, Creative Ministry Puppet Team and Reflections.

The night ended with the annual Snowflake Ball in the Student Activities Center.

Heritage Day

Campbellsville University's Heritage Day 1999 recognized the success and achievements of Dr. Kenneth W. Winters, former president of the institution for the past 11 years. He was recognized with president emeritus status.

"Today we have the honor and privilege of recognizing a champion of Christian service and academic achievement, Dr. Ken Winters, who served as the ninth president of Campbellsville University from 1989 to 1999," said Dr. Michael V. Carter, who assumed the position of president Aug. 1. "Dr. and Mrs. Winters served and continue to support and serve Campbellsville University with distinction," he said.

Carter also spoke of the commitment and mission that Campbellsville University must uphold. He said, "While we give honor to the past, we must work hard to secure an even more promising future for the students and faculty of this grand institution."

Larry Noe, chair of the Board of Trustees, said, "God's mighty hand has led Campbellsville University to heights never before realized by our founders and by alumni and friends."

In response to the speakers, Winters said, "Let me thank you for this great honor. I accept it with humility and love and pledge my continued support of your great work and ministry at Campbellsville University. Thank you for allowing me to serve as your president the last 11 years.

"What a wonderful experience this time has been for me, and I hope it has been profitable for the Campbellsville University family and community," Winters said.

Throughout the service, many of Winters' colleagues and supporters spoke to give him recognition.

Spring Formal 2000

Dancing the night away

The Spring Formal, the last dance of the school year, had more attendees than usual this year, according to SGA member Jessica McFarlin.

"We didn't have a theme this year, like we have in years past, but we really put a lot of effort into the decorations," said McFarlin. "We worked from Monday through Friday to decorate the Student Activities Center with a huge water fountain, water fall, trees and river that flowed around the dance floor. We used much larger decorations than before, and everyone said that they liked them."

McFarlin said that everybody at the dance seemed to have a good time and enjoyed the variety of music that was played.

The trends in formal attire change from year to year, and 2000 was no exception. Many of the dresses were designed with the off-the-shoulder look, and black was a favorite color for many of the gowns. Glitter and sparkle were also evident, along with the usual satin and lace dresses.

Student Government Association sponsors the Spring Formal each year to give students the opportunity to enjoy an evening of dancing the night away and wearing formal clothes. While some of the guys rented a tuxedo for the event, most wore a Sunday suit or dress slacks, dress shirt and necktie.

Jason Hall, SGA president, said that in addition to the Spring Formal, SGA sponsored other events on campus during the 1999-2000 school year including Welcome Week, the Homecoming Dance, a Charity Luau, the Snowflake Ball, the Valentine Pageant and the Sweetheart Dance.

Elizabeth Mattingly won the Student Government Association-sponsored annual Valentine Pageant Feb. 11 in the Greens Recital Hall. The judges panel, which included three individuals who ranged from business professionals to a homemaker, critiqued the eight contestants on interviews, stage appearance and individual talent.

Mattingly, who represented Phi Beta Lambda, was named the 2000 Valentine Queen and will represent Campbellsville University at the annual Mountain Laurel Festival in Pineville, Ky.

Faun Lobb, who represented the Student Ambassadors, was named first runner-up. Jamie Sue Durham, who represented the Campbellsville University Chorale, received second runner-up. Durham's escort, Kevin L. Durham, was named best escort. Brandon Boyatt, who represented the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, won the Best Talent Award after performing her "Men in Black" clogging routine. Sigma Nu Pi's Amy Fitzgerald was presented with the Miss Congeniality Award.

Playing it rough

Intramurals

Intramurals had a busy year with many events in which students could participate, according to Dave Walters, dean of students. The year began with flag football and powder-puff football in the fall semester. Sand volleyball and Ultimate Frisbee tournaments also caught some attention and involved much of the student body.

Intramural sports activities offered during the spring semester included basketball and softball. Basketball was available with the option of both 3-on-3 tournaments and team games. This year's softball league consisted of both male and female teams.

Other activities offered to students included billiards and ping-pong tournaments, as well as other events hosted by the Student Activities Center.

"Involvement and competition in intramurals is continually rising as many students participate in these activities," said Walters. "Intramurals provide an outlet for students who are unable to participate in collegiate sports to show off their skills and talents on the field and court."

Seniors given rings

Ring Ceremony

The Ring Ceremony is a tradition that makes owning a Campbellsville University class ring special. Started in the fall semester of 1998, the ceremony offers students a memorable event to associate with the ownership of their university ring.

Marc C. Whitt, vice president for advancement, said, "We want to evoke fond memories of Campbellsville University as students recall this moving ceremony." This year students were presented rings and the vocal jazz ensemble "A Bend in the Road" performed.

Whitt said the university plans to continue the Ring Ceremony in the future.

Campbellsville University students receiving rings at the ceremony included: George Allen, a senior from Tacoma, Wash.; Darel Barnett, a senior from Morton's Gap, Ky.; Paula Bishop, a junior from Greensburg, Ky.; Melissa Butler, a senior from Elizabethtown, Ky.; Wanda Long from Greensburg, Ky.; Linda Loyall, also from Greensburg; and Tina Proppes, a senior from Campbellsville, Ky.

Spring Revival

The 2000 Spring Revival, entitled "Real Love, Real Life," was headlined by the nationally renowned speaker Dr. DeForest "Buster" Soaries, along with the Christian comedy improvisational group CPR. The three-night revival included praise music by the CU Praise Band and performances by reflections and Thiago Lopes Santos. The revival was open to churches throughout Kentucky, drawing more than 300 high school and junior high students. The students attended the nightly services and worked at several sites throughout the community doing service projects and door-to-door ministry. To help with the revival, more than 175 CU students gave up their time and abilities to serve.

Through the revival, over 50 decisions for Christ were made, including 11 professions of faith.

Clockwise, from top: Buster Soaries preached four times throughout the revival, once each night and a special convocation service. The Praise Band consisted of, from left: Rachel Pavy, Lee Kendrick, Andy Rocha, Tara Taylor and Andrea Chappell. Thiago Lopes Santos used his talents on the saxophone through the services as part of the CU Praise Band. CPR member Carl Crispin accepts questions from students and youth attending the revival. Lee Kendrick helped lead the worship service as part of the Praise Band.

The New Beginning

Academics

Everyone gets there sometime. For some it takes but a few years, for others it seems like a lifetime. But everyone, eventually, has to take what they've learned, what they've experienced, what they know and make something better out of it, move up in the world, finish with school.

This new beginning evokes the emotions of fear and longing, a change into a world sometimes unknown, often unexplored. And yet there is that excitement, that courage, that knowledge that this is the time and the day you have awaited.

Within this section are the people who have committed themselves to being the masters of their own fields, harnessing the power of knowledge to their advantage. Herein are those people whose achievements deserve special recognition and a little extra reward for their ability and excellence. Herein are those who have made it, those who are progressing on.

This is their new beginning, their stroll out into the world of business and marketing and religion and life, to face new challenges and meet new people, to express themselves, their ideas and their knowledge in bold new ways, not sure where they'll fit in.

Everyone gets there sometime - this time is theirs.

The Next Generation

The Student Body

Each year has a story.

In the last two semesters, Campbellsville students rose to meet the challenges of this new year and a new focus.

In this section are the actors of this story, the student body that makes up the heart and soul of our school. Here their names and faces are forever etched in ink on these white pages, a memory of the time they once spent studying to take the next steps in life.

They are the embodiment of the school, freshmen and seniors, male and female, friends and loved ones. These pages can do no justice to the impact each and every one had on each other, for as iron surely sharpens iron, one student sharpens another. Each student helps the other take the next step.

The story of fall semester 1999 and spring semester 2000 will forever be remembered by these men and women who came to Campbellsville to learn and grow. Students played roles on campus, contributing their own lives to the story. We cannot forget these faces, these names, and these stories - for we took part in them and walked right beside them.

Each year has a story. These are the people in that story.

Discipling the Students

Faculty and Staff

For some, it's more than just teaching.

For some, it's the time-honored tradition of the passing of knowledge from one generation to the next — giving freely of themselves, their life experiences, their degrees and memories. It is to help their students better understand life and the world.

These teachers give back not only in homework and test scores, but give of themselves as friends and mentors, giving the time and personal touch it takes to create a true discipling relationship, one where the student not only wants to learn from his or her teacher, but the teacher, in return, desires to share of himself or herself with the student body.

From Romantic poets, to binary code, to the movements of the Holy Spirit, the faculty and staff stand together to bring the body of students up to the next level in their lives, help them take the next step to attaining the goals that were set before them.

For some, it would merely be a 9-to-5 job, five days a week, to take home a paycheck. But for some, for this faculty and this staff, it's a place to help their students, help their friends, find a sense of purpose and direction in life, preparing them for the future.

Carver School of Social Work

The baccalaureate program of social work stresses academic excellence and personal growth within a nurturing, Christian environment. The program expands the university mission in advancing students toward continued learning in all aspects of life with specialized emphasis on the professional application of generalist social work practice.

Scholarship, leadership and Christian service are practiced as a part of the baccalaureate program with encouragement and emphasis placed on continuation throughout life. As a facilitator of progressive change, the social work program strives to teach service within diverse communities, organizations, groups, families and individuals, all in the context of Christian service, according to Darlene Eastridge, director of the baccalaureate program.

The College of Arts & Sciences added an accredited master of arts in social science and a new undergraduate major in criminal justice administration. New faculty were hired to strengthen the College's many programs and a new environmental science minor was developed for approval in the spring. These new programs academically complement the physical changes on campus that include renovations in the Science Building, the Carter Hall annex and improvements in the art department in the Gosser Fine Arts Center.

Sum of the Whole

Clubs & Organizations

The sum of the whole is greater than just its parts.

We, as people, have come to realize that we cannot do everything on our own. There are times when we don't have the abilities we might need to get the job done, we might not have the time required to do the job, we might not have access to the right equipment.

So, we need other people, we need connections, we need clubs and organizations.

When put together with those around us, when thrown into groups of like interests, that group can excel - become more than what it was - more than what just one person alone can accomplish.

That is the reason these clubs and organizations exist, to further our own plots and devices, to give us a medium to share common interests, to have someone there to push us onto the next step if we feel it all slipping away.

In this section you will find people centered around a common cause, promoting their own interests and well being to others. The clubs are a common bond between friends, making their own abilities, time and resources greater. This is the some of the whole that makes up CU.

Students rule the world

SGA

The Student Government Association, SGA, is a group composed of students elected by their peers to serve as intercessors between the student body and the faculty.

"SGA's goal this year has been to restore and strengthen our credibility and involvement in policy decisions. We have been diligent in our efforts to ensure the students' perspective is always considered," said Jason Hall, president.

This year's SGA concentrated on such issues as when to have open dorms in the Residence Village, speed bumps in the South Hall Parking Lot, the methods of charging for room and board, student attendance policy and the possibility of basic tuition covering 18 credit hours.

The SGA also sponsored many student events throughout the school year such as all of the Welcome Week activities, the Homecoming Dance, a Charity Luau, the Snowflake Ball, the Valentine Pageant, the Sweetheart Dance and the Spring Formal.

The SGA serves as an integral part of campus life as they serve to give the students' opinions to help improve the school as the students see fit. There are five Cabinet positions and senator representatives from all the dorms and commuters.

REPUBLICANS

In 1999, the College Republicans were active in the Kentucky Federation of College Republicans. Club members attended the Southern Republican Leadership Conference where they heard Dick Armey, Sen. Mitch McConnell and other prominent Republicans. They also pursued bringing in major political speakers on campus.

"Next year, we plan to invite several Republicans to our campus," said Jason Hall, chairman. "We hope to sponsor at least one major event featuring a prominent media representative or politician."

The College Republicans also worked in the distribution of Republican campaign material. At Homecoming, they held a straw poll for each party for candidates for the presidential election. George W. Bush and Al Gore won the straw poll.

PRE-LAW SOCIETY

When asked about the Pre-Law Society, James Baggett, publicity officer, said, "It is a first-year organization that is dedicated to giving students on campus a forum for pre-law trips and help. The club was formed in order to connect with pre-law students."

The society provides information on different law schools and available help for students preparing for the LSAT (a test for lawyers). During the fall and spring semesters, students were able to take a trip to the University of Kentucky law school open house.

Gena McCubbins, vice president of the Pre-Law Society, said, "The Pre-Law Society offers students who are pursuing a law degree or going into politics a chance to discuss and visit, as well as talk to law students at various accredited law schools. This all allows us to gain input from the other members, which is our goal."

BILLIARDS CLUB

The Billiards Club offers students a chance to interact with others who enjoy shooting pool.

Students have the opportunity to participate in weekly tournaments that alternate between eight-ball and nine-ball games, according to club president Michael Meanor.

Club meetings and tournaments are held in the Student Activities Center.

Interest in the organization, which is open to both males and females, increased during the 1999-2000 school year.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

The Psychology Club serves students' needs by offering intellectual pursuits and bringing in experienced guest speakers.

The club's booth at Homecoming this year was used to explore and show simple experimentation with mice. No harm was done to the mice in the experiment as they were trained to run a race against each other. The booth attracted attention by demonstrating the classic study of how mice can learn a path and become better at overcoming obstacles.

The club brings speakers to its meetings to broaden the study of psychology outside the classroom. The keynote speaker this year was Dr. Royce Simpson, associate professor of psychology and club adviser, who discussed graduate school and what students should expect.

The club's other two advisers are Dr. Susan Howell, associate professor of psychology, and Jeanette Parker, instructor in psychology.

Several members of the club also went to the Kentucky Psychological Association Annual Meeting, which included competition in the PsychBowl.

STUDENT FOUNDATION

Campbellsville University's Student Foundation plays a meaningful role in the overall development operations of the university, according to Marc C. Whitt, vice president for advancement and adviser of the group in 1999.

Whitt said those selected for service to the foundation experience a rewarding opportunity to actively participate in a wide range of development and alumni activities including: a unique chance to forward the mission and purpose of the university; helping other students through the creation and awarding of Student Foundation Scholarships; and forming rewarding friendships with alumni and friends of the institution, thereby enabling a resourceful network of contacts that will prove invaluable upon graduation from Campbellsville. This year, the Student Foundation participated in Family Weekend, the Ring Ceremony, Homecoming and the Athletic Hall of Fame.

The organization was comprised of 14 students this year, but Whitt is hopeful the number of students will increase for the 2000-01 school year.

"Campbellsville University has increased the membership of the Student Ambassador program this year, and the organization is stronger than ever," according to Jen Carney, assistant director of admissions who serves as the group's adviser.

"With a larger number of students represented, we have been able to participate in many more opportunities to represent Campbellsville University," Carney said.

She said Student Ambassador President Becky Hughes has been "very instrumental" in guiding this group to the "elite status it deserves."

Carney said the organization has been "vital" to the Office of Admissions in recruiting new students, as well as showing themselves to be excellent representatives of the student body during Board of Trustee visits to campus.

"This has been a fantastic, fully-functioning student-led operation," Carney said, "and I'm very proud of how they have represented Campbellsville University throughout the year."

BROADCAST SERVICES

The Office of Broadcast Services is a focal point for communication at Campbellsville University. Broadcast Services encompasses TV-4, a low-power TV station owned and operated by Campbellsville University; Campus Radio, a student-run station that plays over the television and features top contemporary Christian hits; and the University Community Channel which airs notices and information to the community.

The staff consists of seven students, one volunteer professional, Ed McGuire, who is retired from Kentucky Educational Television, and Bryan Blair, director of broadcast services. These nine workers oversee all aspects of production for the different areas of the Office of Broadcast Services.

The office produces several in-house productions each semester which are aired on TV-4. These productions spotlight different areas of life at Campbellsville University.

This year's major shows include the "Coach Travis Ford Show," "Coach Donna Wise Show," "C.U. Today" and "What's Cooking, Neighbor?" The channel also covers the Annual Campbellsville Rotary Auction and various political forums on campus. In addition, several Tiger athletic home games are taped by the Office of Broadcast Services for airing.

Echoes of the future

CAMPUS TIMES

The Campus Times created for itself a new image this year as it joined the technology revolution and made the jump from paper to HTML. Proving true the old adage that everything which is really new is truly old' in its jump to cyberspace, the team took on the name of one of the first of Campbellsville University's newspapers, The Echo, for its online home.

The Echo Online, averaging nearly 10 hits a week, became a new way for students to get news, reviews and opinions by reading them over the Internet. The group of reporters interviewed faculty and staff, covered the sports and tackled such topics as how to witness to persons in non-Christian religions.

The Echo Online also posted articles from past issues of the Echo that focused on the early years of the university. The problems in the school's past, from law suits to gremlins in the residence halls, were highlighted in those issues.

The Echo Online can be read from the university's website at www.campbellsvil.edu.

MENC

Music Educators National Conference is a professional organization for those students who are music education majors and those simply interested in music. MENC offers these students an opportunity to attend conferences in order to keep informed of changes and new techniques for use in the classroom.

MENC also allows students to help promote music education in the public school system. Students have the privilege of being able to associate with music leaders in the community.

Campbellsville University's chapter of MENC is primarily for students who attend workshops and conferences as well as assisting local music teachers and students prepare for All-District and All-State.

TOGA TAU DAU

Early in the fall semester of 1999, a group of students had a goal to have good, clean fellowship with each other in a way unlike ever seen before in Campbellsville. For one night, they formed the Toga Tau Dau, a group of students protesting against drugs, sex and violence. The group nearly brought the house down as a estimated 300 people gathered within Bell's Apartment. This event, was heralded by Matt Rogers and Ron Cornelison.

KEA-SP

Campbellsville University's KEA-SP has been active this year. With nearly 70 active members, the club has been able to participate in numerous educational projects while providing a service to the local community.

Several members participated in H.E.L.P. (Homework Elevates Learning and Pride) and B.E.A.R. (Be Excited About Reading) Nights, which serve the educational needs of local elementary students by enhancing reading and homework skills.

Members of KEA-SP had the opportunity to become involved in conferences this year by attending the fall conference in Morehead, Ky., Oct. 21, 1999; the Safe Schools Conference in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4, 1999; and Stop the Violence Conference held in Campbellsville, Ky., Nov. 8, 1999.

Relating through art

Alpha Rho Tau

This year, Alpha Rho Tau raised money so the group could go to Cincinnati to visit different art museums. Through meetings and activities, the main objective of Alpha Rho Tau is to grow closer to each other by using art as a means of expressing themselves, said club vice president Michele McComas.

"By doing this, we are able to make a connection that allows us to relate to each other," she said.

Members not only participate in club activities, but they also have a chance to attend several art exhibits throughout the semester. This allows members to get a different perspective on the different art media, such as sculpture and paintings.

Members also work on individual art projects throughout the year to gain experience and talent.

The art club is not just a club for only art majors and minors; it is a club that is open to any student who has an interest in art.

Sigma Zeta

Sigma Zeta members continued to participate in many academic, civic and social activities this year. The chapter won the 1999 Founder's Cup, awarded to the year's most active chapter, at the Sigma Zeta National Convention at Hillside College.

The club attended the annual Kentucky Academy of Sciences at Eastern Kentucky University where four students presented research projects. The students and their topics included: Neil Mills, spinal cord injuries; Jessica McFarlin, nerve regeneration; Angela Newcomb, YAG laser (brain) technology; and Jason Ash, prostate cancer enzymes. Ash won first place in his division, while McFarlin won second place honors.

Members helped the community by participating in the Adopt-a-Highway program and donating Christmas gifts to Kosair's Children's Hospital.

Phi Beta Lambda

Phi Beta Lambda is a national association of thousands of postsecondary students interested in becoming more successful in the business world.

Membership is open to all postsecondary students pursuing degrees who accept the purpose of PBL, subscribe to its creed and possess qualities for employment.

Phi Beta Lambda members participate in several events and projects throughout the year to help others in the Campbellsville area.

This year, the PBL joined forces with local businesses to help sponsor community projects such as "Toys for Kids."

Several members participate each year in state and national competitions including the areas of business communication and business law. Campbellsville University students have won or placed in these competitions during the past several years.

Conferring distinction

Sigma Tau Delta

Sigma Tau Delta worked to raise money for the Montgomery Library this year with a booth at Homecoming during the Walk-Around Parade.

The money purchased 16 novels from the "100 Best Books of the Decade" listing. Beth Kemper, assistant professor of English, helped the club organize this project.

Sigma Tau Delta's central purpose is to confer distinction upon outstanding students of the English language and literature in undergraduate, graduate and professional studies.

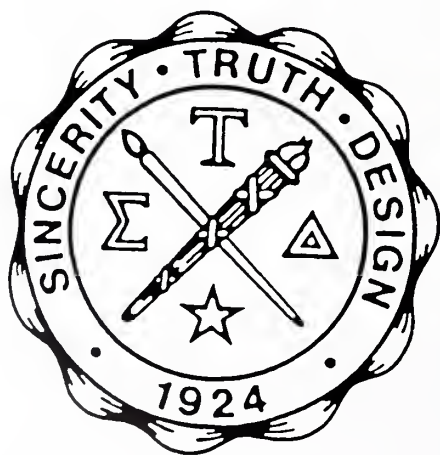

The organization also recognizes the accomplishments of professional writers who have contributed to the fields of language and literature.

The motto for Sigma Tau Delta is "Sincerity, Truth and Design" and the official colors are cardinal and black. The official flower for Sigma Tau Delta is the red rose.

Sigma Nu Pi became a newly established club from the previous club known as HPER (Health, Physical Education and Recreation).

This year, Sigma Nu Pi helped support the local community, along with the help of the PE 340 lifeguard training class, by hosting swimming lessons for public school children. With the help of the PE 391 adapted land and water-based physical education class, the group worked with mentally and physically handicapped children in the local community.

The club won first place in the Homecoming competition between school clubs.

Adopting a family SWITCH

Social Workers In Touch Can Help, Campbellsville University's SWITCH organization, works throughout the year to find ways they can help others in the community by using the knowledge and skills learned in the school's social work program.

SWITCH helps to provide the social work student with peer interaction, extracurricular education and activity and an opportunity to participate in local and area community service.

Monthly meetings usually consist of a professional social worker as guest speaker, a business meeting and refreshments.

The organization adopted a family during the holiday season and provided them with much-needed clothing and food for Christmas.

In March, the club held campus-wide activities to raise awareness of National Social Work Month around campus and in the Campbellsville community.

The club also participated in the "Dialogue on Race" and Homecoming activities.

Caring for community

SIFE

Throughout the year, Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) continued to care for the community. In the fall, members took part in Make a Difference Day by going to the nursing home and visiting patients. The group also went to a nursery school and read stories to the students.

At Thanksgiving, SIFE delivered baskets of food to needy families in the community. SIFE also made efforts to help Habitat for Humanity.

At Homecoming, SIFE raised money for their community efforts by running a Velcro Wall, where participants could let themselves hang in any position.

During the spring, SIFE helped out with Reality Town at Campbellsville Middle School. Reality Town is a program where students go through booths receiving a salary and paying bills to find out what life beyond high school is like.

In April, several members of the group went to St. Louis and attended a competition.

As a prisoner for the Lord, then, I urge you to live a life worthy of the calling you have received. — Ephesians 4:1

FCA CREW

Captains:	James Bane Jeff Todd
Co-Captains:	Josh Moran Bruce Warf
Secretaries:	Beth Albertson Heather Nunn
Recruiters:	Sara Beth Finney Kenda Shugart

Beginning in the spring, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) took on a new look. With the resignation of the president, Jackie Geurin Bishop, and vice president, Georgianne Fenwick, FCA replaced these positions with an FCA Crew consisting of captains, co-captains, secretaries and recruiters.

The crew is working as a team to provide more opportunities and activities for students on campus to become involved in FCA.

"One of our main goals is to reach out to the community and athletes on campus by providing them time to fellowship while learning more about God," said Kenda Shugart, recruiter, adding that FCA is striving to encourage athletes to be bold about their faith in order to impact campus.

The club provides many opportunities for worship including Creative Ministry and Skit teams and testimony. The incorporation of these activities has enhanced the atmosphere at FCA according to Shugart.

While concentrating on today, the crew is also focusing on the future of FCA. The goals for next year include further outreach and other activities to minister to students. The club also plans to bring in bands and well-known athletes to draw more attention to FCA.

One body, One spirit

BSU

There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were

BODY

ONE

SPIRIT

called in one hope of your calling . . .
— Ephesians 4:4

The focus of the Baptist Student Union this year was unity - in both body and spirit. Services, activities and other events planned by BSU maintained this focus in order to encourage students to draw closer to the Lord.

"Unity has not only made this year one of the most successful years, but it also opened doors for future missions opportunities," said junior Bruce Warf.

From Welcome Week to Family Weekend to care packages to Dinner Theater to Spring Revival, BSU has had a hand in many events on campus this year. Baptist Student Union offers students many opportunities to get involved through outreach programs, missions projects and other scheduled activities.

Ed Pavy, director of campus ministries, said, "I would like for people to look back at this year and remember that students were very missions-minded, as evidenced by students going to Wilson, N.C., to help with clean-up after the hurricane in September. Also, not only by that, but by students going to Jordan, Mexico and Eastern Kentucky over Christmas and the many Spring Break missions trips."

Spring Break was a tremendous success this year with more than 100 students on 11 different teams spending their break ministering to others in the name of Christ, said Pavy. The teams visited seven cities and four countries including Arlington, Texas; Boston, Mass.; Charleston, S.C.; Cleveland, Ohio; Florida; Ireland; Malta; Mexico; Poland; South Dakota; and Washington, D.C.

"It has been my experience that if you throw a stone into a pond, it will create some ripples. If you increase the size of the stone enough, you will create a wave," said senior Todd Parish, BSU president.

"I believe that this year, the movement of God in the hearts of His people created a wave across our campus. I praise God because the students at CU decided to ride the wave and not let it pass by," said Parish.

Beyond the Game

Athletics

It goes beyond the game.

It goes beyond the whistle to start the race. It goes beyond the stress in the huddle, trying to hear the last play of the game. It goes beyond the moment right before you hit the water, hoping that your form was perfect and you'll barely make a splash.

It goes beyond the quiet locker room after the defeat that never should have occurred. It goes beyond the crack of the ball and the bat and the tightening of your muscles. It goes beyond the sight of the ball headed for your forehead, and you moving to make sure it doesn't make contact.

The spirit of the game, the spirit of the team, the spirit of the self — it goes beyond all these things, it goes beyond all outside appearances.

It's knowing you were a part of it all. You made it happen. You were there for the swing and the stroke and the drive. You were there for the jump, the push and the flip. You were there for the set, the bump and the spike.

You were a part of it all, and nothing can ever take those memories from you - not the end of the game, not the end of the season, not the end of school - nothing. You made it happen - you were there.

Tiger Baseball

This year's Tiger baseball team won the Mid-South Conference championship for the first time.

The Tigers, 31-29 on the season, defeated Union College (7-3) in Corbin, Ky., for the MSC championship.

"This year's team deserves to be champions," said head coach Beauford Sanders. "This group of guys played hard all year long and never lost sight of their goals through adversity," said Sanders.

Nine Tigers were named to the Mid-South Conference Team. Senior Elvin Ruiz, juniors Justin Pryor, Crad Jagers and Nick Thurmond were named to the first team. Senior Nick Berry and juniors Eric Morris and Terry Smith were named second team, while junior Steven Hedgespeth and sophomore Bradley Stallins were honorable mention.

Seven Tigers were also named to the MSC Academic Team. They were Jimmy Stout, Casey Call, Pryor, Brian Wheeler, Mike Mulhall, Stallins and Jarrad Durham.

"The Tigers won some very crucial games during the season against some of our MSC foes," said Sanders. They took home three wins against rival Georgetown College and three against Cumberland College. Campbellsville finished with their best ever MSC record, 10-7.

With the MSC Championship, the Tigers earned the number one seed and a berth to the Region XI Tournament in Jackson, Tenn. CU beat Lipscomb University 4-2 and fell to Lambuth and Union University to end their season. Senior Elvin Ruiz was named to the Region XI Team.

Team shoots higher

Women's Basketball

The 1999-2000 Lady Tiger Basketball Team jumped onto the scene this season with an experienced team that was ready to play, said Donna Wise, head coach.

Carrie Johnson Crowe, Kristin Patton, Tessa Tenpenny, Beth Sells and Sara Higdon were the five returning starters. Farrah Sullivan, Nancy Lyon and Veronica Carter were all returning key players. There were seven newcomers added to fill out the 1999-2000 roster including Whitney Lee, Crystal Judd, DeAusha Atkinson, Andrea Michael, Carissa McCoy, Erica Williams and Dee Dee Bruce.

Making improvements from last year's record of 17-15, the 1999-2000 Lady Tigers left many teams in the dust with their 28-5 winning season. The Lady Tiger basketball team shot its way to the top, literally, ending up as this year's Mid-South Conference regular season champions and the 2000 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic (NAIA) National Tournament Elite Eight.

Freshman Andrea Michael, when reflecting on her first season with the Tigers, said, "The team tried its hardest; we did our best. It was such a great feeling to be part of a winning team."

Even though the team faced a disappointing loss to the 1999-2000 NAIA Champions, Oklahoma City University, during the national championship in Jackson, Tenn., the Lady Tigers still had an excellent season, Wise said.

Wise Wins 500th Game

Donna Wise's 25th year as Campbellsville's head women's basketball coach proved to be an exciting and rewarding year as she won her 500th game. Wise was also awarded the NAIA Mid-South Conference Coach of the Year, the NAIA District 6 Coach of the Year and was a finalist for the NAIA National Coach of the Year.

"The most memorable part of 500 wins is reflecting on all the players who contributed, as well as my family and the university for supporting me," said Wise.

"Coach Wise is not only an excellent coach, but a teacher as well. It's obvious that she teaches basketball well, but she teaches so much more about life off the court, too," said Jamie Browning, director of sports information.

Basketball

This season's Campbellsville University Tiger men's basketball team overcame many hurdles and came out successfully, according to head coach Travis Ford.

The focus of the Tigers was straight, and they set many goals to achieve this year. With a record of 23 and 11, the Tigers' hard work and dedication paid off, Ford said.

Under Ford's leadership, the Tigers went on to compete in the Mid-South Conference and the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) National Tournament (for the third year in a row). Even though they were not successful in winning the national championship, the Tigers "fought hard and played tough," said Ford.

At the end of the season, Ford announced he was accepting the head men's basketball coaching job at Eastern Kentucky University after serving at Campbellsville three years. He recommended Keith Adkins, his assistant coach, as the new head coach, and Adkins received the nod.

At a press conference announcing Adkins as the new coach April 7, Dr. Michael V. Carter, president, said, "All of us are very impressed with Coach Adkins' sincerity, Christian commitment, love of Campbellsville University, and desire to build and sustain over a strong, winning men's basketball program."

Carter thanked Ford for his three years at CU and said, "No doubt, we will cheer the ECU Colonels to numerous victories under the leadership of Coach Travis Ford."

Another staffing change occurred at the end of the spring semester as Jim Deaton, assistant director of athletics at Carson-Newman College, became the new athletic director.

Deaton, according to Carter, is a "strong believer in the academic, physical and spiritual development of the student athlete."

Deaton and his wife, Delphine, have two children, Amy and Ben.

Cheerleaders

Campbellsville University's cheerleading squad began this year with cheerleading camp at the University of Tennessee during the first week in August. The squad learned new routines, stunts, pyramids and cheers to prepare them for the upcoming year.

In early March, the squad participated in the Mid-South Cheerleading Championship in Frankfort, Ky. The CU Tiger Cheerleaders placed sixth with North Greenville College capturing first place. Three Tiger cheerleaders were named All-Conference, including senior Crissy Caldwell, senior James Finch and senior Marissa Hall. Academic All-Conference awards were given to senior Amie Rose Johnson, sophomore Season Olson, sophomore Shauna Price and junior Kevin Ray.

Mid-South Conference Mascot of the Year was awarded to Kevin Ray for the second year in a row. He also pulled away with winning the Mid-South Conference mascot competition. In this portion of the program, Ray had to compete against two other school mascots in order to win this title. What really scored him points to win the competition was when he flipped backwards off the top of a garbage can and pinned his opponent.

"Every individual was such an asset to our squad this year," said Shauna Price. "Good attitudes and determination brought not only unity, but a closeness we will always treasure."

Cross Country

This year's cross country teams kept improving throughout the season, while they upheld their competitiveness with rival Cumberland College.

Newcomers Michelle Roman, Mary Beth England and Holly Cashell added new depth to the women's team as they continued to improve with every race, according to Terry Bishop, head coach.

The men's team worked hard, finishing strong at each meet, he said. The team finished third at the Mountain Top Classic in Georgia and brought home second place finishes at Berea, Asbury and Midway.

Both teams finished as Mid-South Conference runners-up, with sophomore Jason Hayes and junior Patrick Baldwin qualifying for nationals.

Kuluna Masden and Hayes received All-Conference honors, which placed them in the top seven runners at the conference meet. Hayes also received the Runner of the Week Award in the MSC numerous times throughout the season.

At the end of the season, Baldwin was named Academic All-American. To qualify for this award, he had to meet a qualifying time and hold at least a 3.5 GPA.

"I'm really proud of everyone. The teams as a whole performed well at the MSC meet," Bishop said.

Cross country nationals

Then there were two — sophomore Jason Hayes and junior Patrick Baldwin representing Campbellsville University at the NAIA National Cross Country Race in Kenosha, Wis. Nov. 20.

The two qualified by being the first two individuals to finish, along with another team in the Mid-South Conference meet Nov. 6.

Hayes represented Campbellsville at the 1998 national meet as well, making this his second consecutive year to make an appearance. Hayes had top place finishes in several races throughout the season. Baldwin made his first appearance at nationals this year and was also very competitive throughout the season.

Hayes and Baldwin represented the school well in the race full of very strong competition, according to head coach Terry Bishop. Hayes placed in the top half, placing 113th out of 236 runners, while Baldwin placed 208th in the race.

Tigers fight the odds

Football

This year's Fighting Tiger football team was not prepared for what the future held during the 1999-2000 season. Despite all the odds and obstacles the team faced, the Tigers never gave up and fought until the end, according to head coach Ron Finley.

The year began with a string of losses. Prior to the season start, Dave Fryrear, athletic director and Fighting Tiger offensive coordinator, lost his life from injuries received in a houseboating accident.

The Tigers faced two losses in the first two games.

On Sept. 19, the team lost yet another friend and fellow team member after the second game of the season. Jason Green, a senior captain and All-American from Dalton, Ga., was killed in a car accident in Georgia.

"Life must go on though, and the season continued with many high moments to conclude with two wins and eight losses," said Finley. "Three of those losses were by a total of seven points, and we only had one real terrible half of football in another loss late in the season."

Ninety young men are already preparing for next season, and Finley said the staff feels confident that the Tigers will "make a run at the Mid-South Conference Football title and a berth in the national playoffs."

Finley said as the Tigers "continue into the 21st century, our goal is to represent our university in the best way possible. Our teams play hard always, with confidence continually, striving to win, but with the highest standards of excellence on and off the field."

Men's Golf

The Campbellsville University golf team met tough opposition this year. With five tournaments to play and some of the key people from last year not returning to the team, it made it quite difficult to play a successful game, according to Dean Brownley, head coach for 1999-2000.

Even though the team met this opposition, the Campbellsville Tigers played hard and toughed it out. The Tiger golf team remained competitive, but hopes to prove even more successful next year.

One highlight for the team was senior Adam Lawson finishing high enough in the Mid-South Conference play to be chosen to compete in the regional competition. Lawson finished 20th out of 63 golfers at regionals.

"I've enjoyed playing for Campbellsville the past four years," said Lawson. "Playing on the team has given me opportunities to play courses I would not have otherwise. I've learned a lot playing under three different coaches and with the variety of guys on the team each year."

The Tigers played in five tournaments. At the Central Invitational, they placed 12th out of 14. Playing Cumberland College, they placed 14th out of 15. At the Transylvania Invitational, they placed fourth out of 12. At the Kentucky Independent Colleges Tournament, they placed 10th out of 13. At the Mid-South Conference Tournament, they placed sixth out of seven.

Men's Soccer

The men's soccer team worked toward a successful season, but several obstacles limited its ability to win. Team morale remained high, even with the difficulties encountered, and hopes for a better season next year were expressed by several members of the team.

"This year we had high expectations for the team, but due to injuries, some of those goals could not be met. I expect, though, that next year's team will be strong and will meet the goals that are set. I'm very positive about next year," said coach Dean Brownley.

"The intensity of stepping out onto the turf this past season was incredibly overwhelming! Next year, Campbellsville soccer will see a definite change and a possible title," said Adam Groseclose, soccer player.

"The attitude and mindset of the team going into the season was phenomenal! The goals were set and our work ethic gave proof of our desire to win. Despite being hammered with complications, we showed the heart of a true team!" said Jason Castenir, soccer player.

Women's Soccer

As the fourth year of Campbellsville University's women's soccer team kicked off, this year's Lady Tigers were ready for a new challenge.

With six starters and seven lettermen returning, the Lady Tigers were well aware of the hurdles they had to face as such a young team.

Although their 4-14 record this season was far from perfect, the improvement between last year's record, 1-15, was quite noticeable, according to Dan Bailey, head coach. The Lady Tigers won two of their home games, a feat that had yet to be accomplished in any other season in the history of women's soccer at Campbellsville.

Soccer veteran Abbie Whitley, said, "This year's soccer team was better than any other year, because of some of the improvements we made. There was much more team building, and we also won our first ever home game. I am proud of the work we did and the goals we achieved."

"The team this year achieved almost all of the goals set before them. They not only doubled their wins, but scored more goals than ever before," said Bailey.

Swimming

The Campbellsville University men's and women's swimming teams continued their winning traditions this year, including qualifying to compete in the Bluegrass Mountain Conference Championship and the NAIA National Championships.

At the Bluegrass competition, held in Wooster, Ohio, the men's team placed sixth in cumulative points scored and the women placed first.

Joyce Brandao, a junior from Fortaleza, Brazil, won the 100-yard butterfly and the 200-yard individual medley. Brandao received second place in the 200-yard butterfly in a heated race. Anne Perry, a sophomore from Franklin, Tenn., placed third in the mile freestyle, sixth in the 500-yard freestyle and seventh in the 200-yard freestyle. Carol Gois, a sophomore from Fortaleza, placed third in the 100-yard butterfly and eighth in the 50-yard freestyle.

Richard Blake, a sophomore from London, England, placed third in the 500-yard freestyle, fourth in the 200-yard freestyle and eighth in the 200-yard butterfly.

At the NAIA nationals, held in British Columbia, Canada, the men placed 10th and the women placed fourth. Blake was second in the 500 freestyle, third in the 1,500 freestyle and seventh in the 200 freestyle.

High-ranking finishes by Brandao and Kellie Lane, a junior from St. Petersburg, Fla., plus the outstanding swims by the Lady Tiger relay squads assisted their team in reaching fourth place. The 200-freestyle relay squad of Brandao, Gois, Lizanne Douglas and Karen McEachrane placed third in the competition.

The women won several other races at nationals including Brandao placing second in the 100-meter butterfly while Gois placed sixth. Brandao also placed fourth in the 200-meter individual medley.

Softball

The Lady Tiger softball team had an up and down season this year. With only one returning senior and six new freshmen, the 17-member team pulled away with a record of 22-24 overall and a 11-13 Mid-South Conference record.

The team welcomed Matt Jenkins and his wife, Kerri Jenkins, as the Lady Tigers' new coach and assistant coach, respectively. Not only did Jenkins serve as head softball coach this year, he also served as acting director of athletics during the 1999-2000 school year following the death of Dave Fryrear, director of athletics.

"We hope to improve on next year's season with the return of 16 players who gained valuable playing experience this year," said Jenkins. "The Lady Tiger softball players worked hard this year and represented the school with great pride. I look forward to working with the team again in 2000-2001 as we attempt to improve our record."

One love, tennis!

Women's Tennis

The Campbellsville University Lady Tiger Tennis Team played remarkably well this year, according to Leigh Sullivan, head coach, who is in his first year at Campbellsville.

"The team seems pretty optimistic about the success and building we achieved this year," said Sullivan. "The team has great ambitions to return next year even stronger, and we have already set high standards and goals to meet."

Sullivan said he looks forward to coaching the Lady Tigers again.

Men's Tennis

While the 1999-2000 Men's Tennis Team was slightly smaller than the previous year's, the 2000 team bounced back into action this spring like pros.

"I was very impressed with their behavior and how professional they acted on the court," said Head Coach Leigh Sullivan. "While still a young team, we were a lot stronger this year than in the past."

The 2000 roster for Men's Tiger tennis included senior Andy Rocha; sophomores Nick Cook, Austin Prather and Caesar Juca; and freshmen Miguel Mariano and Harry Walsh.

Both Mariano and Walsh held two out of the three top spots for the team, while Walsh also made First Team All Conference in singles and in doubles with his partner, Nick Cook.

The Tigers held a 9-11 record, ending the season with a discouraging loss to Georgetown College in the first round of the Mid-South Conference tournament. The tournament was in Knoxville, Tenn., March 16-17, 2000.

Volleyball

The 1999 Campbellsville University Volleyball Team struggled through many challenges, according to coach Beauford Sanders. They began the season full of hope, but it ended in frustration, said Sanders. Many of the hopes were shattered because of changes within the team and injuries.

The season ended with a 7-20 record, but three Campbellsville members were placed on the Second Team All Mid-South Conference Team and one on the Honorable Mention All-MSC.

Named to the Second Team All Mid-South Conference Team were Julie Coss, Tasha Tanner and Liz Laughlin. Amanda Wright was Honorable Mention.

Six members of this year's team will be returning in 2000 with high hopes, he said.

Sanders said, "I hope to sign six to eight recruits to give the 2000 team 12 to 14 players.

"This is the best group of girls I've ever coached as far as training in the spring goes. The six girls coming back are really excited, and I'm very hopeful about next season, even though we have a young team of one senior and five sophomores coming back."

Our Minds' Eyes

Creative Minds

The mind is a precious gift, given to us to learn, expand and express. they see and how they see it.

Through body movement, spoken and written language, song and dance, we are able to bring forth into reality an artistic impression from our very own mind's eye and show those around us how we feel.

As we continue with life and enter into the next century, these breaks from the harsh reality of an ever-changing world will be a welcome world, where imagination and creativity rule supreme. It is the here and now where these precious minds are being formed, and it is the here and now that they have begun to express what

The whole world is a stage, and these people see it. Our language was meant to connect, and these people do so. Music can tame the beast, and these people are playing.

Inside these pages are those people who have chosen to take their gifts of creativity and express them through production, publication and performance.

These temporal arts, caught in the moment, are put down for your sake, for your memory, for your own mind's eye.

Harlequins

This year's Harlequins club presented an influx of interest and opportunity for the members. Students led the work of repainting the theater at the beginning of the year, with theater and non-theater students working literally day and night to get the job done.

The group also held a strong presence during the Homecoming Fair, reenacting Medieval times with jesters, beggars, knights and dragons. The group raised money by performing actions for the attendees.

The Harlequins presented three plays throughout the year, including the classic The Glass Menagerie, The Enhancement of Beauty and the Beast, and Little Shop of Horrors.

The Harlequins also served in workshops for high school students and other presentations, such as the Christmas Celebration and for BSU.

The Glass Menagerie

Harlequins' fall play

This year's fall drama was "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams. It is the story of a mother, Amanda, played by Jan Sapp; her daughter, Laura, played by Andrea Clement; and her son, Tom, played by Steven Bishop. Amanda lives in her past, her daughter never leaves home and her son can't wait to escape. Stefan Gearhart plays an engaged gentleman caller who breaks Laura's heart and causes a final clash between the siblings.

"The play was a wonderful experience," said Bishop.

'Beauty' performed

Harlequins' children's play

The children's play performed by the Harlequins and members of the community this year was The Enhancement of Beauty and the Beast. The play is a take off the classic fairy tale of selfishness turned into true love. The play included the magical transformation of the prince to beast and back again, elegant ballroom dancing and a score of children filling in such parts as servants, peasants and wolves.

The play began with a prelude to the story, explaining how, due to his own selfish nature, a prince who would not give anything to a poor beggar was turned into a beast by the beggar's very own magic. The curse of the Beast could be taken away only by finding true love and being loved back unconditionally.

Madame Rondeau, Beauty's mother, stumbled into the castle of the cursed Beast after having lost all of her husband's life earnings and fortunes in a boating accident. She takes a rose for Beauty, who had asked for only a rose as a gift. In taking the rose she committed thievery and was to be sentenced to die by the Beast. In a show of compassion, the Beast allowed Madame Rondeau to return home, through which Beauty returned instead.

In the stories that ensue, Beauty and the Beast find love through their acquaintance and realizes it as the Beast is dying. The witch removes the curse since they found unconditional love, and they live happily ever after.

Plant rules the world

Harlequins' Spring Musical

Little Shop of Horrors, the spring musical, brought to Campbellsville's Theatre the blood-sucking plant which used a florist shop owned by Mushnik and a simple-minded man named Seymour to take over the world.

The plant fed off blood, which Seymour gave by pricking his fingers, feeding it Audrey's abusive boyfriend's dead remains, his boss and, eventually, his one true love, Audrey, and himself.

Creative outlet

Connections

Connections, a university publication, is an outlet for creative writers, photographers and artists on campus to be published. Students can enter essays, poetry, short stories, black and white photography and drawings.

This year, Connections was expanded to include some written material in foreign languages. When foreign languages were used, the English translation was published beside it to give the reader a clear understanding of the poem.

There were 15 submissions to the 2000 book, with a wide range of topics. In April, a celebration was held to present awards to first place, second place and honorable mention in each category.

Connections adviser Clara Metzmeier said, "The purpose of Con- nections is to have an outlet for people's creative talent. It is necessary for people to have an outlet with anything from sports to writing or art."

Group cuts CD

New Horizon

In November 1998, Scott Burress, Russ Funk, Brandon Carrier and Zach Rice met to sing for a Thanksgiving celebration. Little did they know what was in store for them.

"We had no intention of going any further," said Carrier, "but the Lord has opened up doors and just really blessed us. He has brought us farther than we ever dreamed."

In February 2000, New Horizon cut its first CD "Bridging the Gap."

The group's mission is to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ and to bring old and young together under one roof to worship together and to further the kingdom of Christ.

Rice said, "It is amazing how far the Lord has brought us in just a year, and it is exciting to know that He has even more in store for us, if we are faithful to His call."

Funk was previously part of a popular gospel group but said, "I have always dreamed of being able to play and sing with guys my age, and the Lord had to take me away from the industry to allow me to meet these guys and to be able to travel with them."

"I am grateful that the Lord has allowed me to fulfill a dream," said Burress, "and I don't know of anyone that I would rather sing with than these three guys."

Reflections

"Reflecting the love of Christ to people who need to hear it is what the group Reflections is all about," according to Sarah Daugherty, one of the group's four core members.

But what is Reflections?

Reflections is one of the newest ministry teams to emerge from Campbellsville University. Replacing the former Campbellsville Singers, Reflections is a female quartet vocal team, composed of five of the university's own students, including two sets of twins. Rachel and Rebecca Pavy and Hannah and Sarah Daugherty make up the vocal side, while Thiago Lopes Santos takes over as sound technician.

While Reflections has already begun their ministry on campus, by performing at such events as BSU's Dinner Theater in February as well as many other events, their summer ministry won't begin until June 4. From June until July 30, the group will be traveling around the state working at camps, leading in worship on Sunday mornings, leading Bible studies, recreation, fellowship and/or Vacation Bible School.

Following the return of Reflections in the fall, they will carry on their ministry on and off campus performing wherever God leads. "We love singing," said Sarah. "That's what is in the heart of all of us. That's what united us."

'Figaro, Figaro, Figaro'

Opera

Each fall the Campbellsville University School of Music produces an opera. This year's fall performance was "The Marriage of Figaro" by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. The cast and those involved built their own sets and designed each costume for the opera.

"Opera is a totally different experience that includes all of the arts together," said Dr. Mark Bradley. "It has music, art and acting. It has more art forms than any other. Opera is the supreme art work."

"The Marriage of Figaro" was originally a French play (by Beaumarchais) which was set in Seville, Spain. The opera has an Italian libretto and music by the Austrian composer Mozart.

The plot of the opera begins with Figaro, steward at the castle of Aguas Frescas, who has borrowed 10,000 francs from Marceline, housekeeper of the same castle, and has given her a note promising to either repay the money at a certain time or marry her if he doesn't repay the money.

But, the plot heightens when the audience finds out that he is very much in love with Suzanne, Count Almaviva's young chambermaid, and is preparing to marry her. As for the Count, he himself is very intrigued by Suzanne and favors the marriage of her and Figaro in hopes that he can obtain from her in secret her yielding to the droit du seigneur.

This scandal is conducted on behalf on the Count by Basile, an unscrupulous music-master of the castle. The Countess, Suzanne and Figaro band together to try and foil the plans of the lord of the manor.

A small page, loved by everyone at the castle but very mischievous, slips away from his master. He involuntarily continues to place obstacles in the way of the Count's progress while at the same time getting himself into hot water.

The Count begins to pick up on his demise and seeks revenge. Because he can not make Suzanne his mistress, he desperately tries to marry Marceline to Figaro. The day he commands Figaro to marry or pay ten thousand francs, which he can not possibly do, it is revealed that Marceline is Figaro's unknown mother. Of course, this ruins the Count's plans.

The Countess, who still longs to be win back her husband, arranges with Suzanne to pretend to request a brief rendezvous with the Count in the garden. The wife would then appear in the place of the mistress. Figaro learns of the scheduled rendezvous and becomes furious, believing that his fiancée has deceived him. He plans to hide at the appointed spot and surprise the Count with Suzanne.

He is himself fooled when he discovers that the whole incident is only a game between the Countess and Suzanne for the purpose of fooling the Count. He humorously joins in on the game and watches as the Count throws himself at his wife's feet being convicted of unfaithfulness.

He begs for her forgiveness which she grants him. And to end the story, Figaro marries Suzanne.

The play was directed by Dr. Mark Bradley and assisted by Donna Tinnell.

Nuances

One of the newest attractions at Campbellsville University is the resident graduate string quartet called "Nuances."

The quartet is made up of professional musicians from Brazil, three of whom have come to Campbellsville University to complete their master's degree studies. The other, violinist Heidy Ximenes, is an adjunct member of the faculty who completed her bachelor's degree at Campbellsville University. The other members of the quartet include violinist Edilene Lopes, violinist Alexandre Lopes and cellist Sanny Souza.

The group is making several appearances on campus and throughout the community including performing at the groundbreaking ceremony of the new Technology Training Center and at Creekside Restaurant in Campbellsville.

The Campbellsville University Handbell Choir is one of the few college handbell choirs anywhere and one of the oldest, according to its director, Nevalyn Moore, assistant professor of music. The Handbell Choir has represented the university at churches, high schools, conventions, Baptist events and arts series around Kentucky and throughout the southeastern United States and in Canada since 1980.

The Handbell Choir once again joined the University Chorale on its spring tour in March this year. The tour included Chattanooga, Tenn., Georgia and Florida.

After traveling back through Georgia on its return trip for one more concert, the Handbell Choir made its final stop in Somerset, Ky., before ending the tour with a home concert in Campbellsville.

The repertoire for this performance year included "Fanfare for Bells" by McCleary, "Procession of Praise" by Sherman, "He's Got the Whole World" by Dobrinski, "On Eagle's Wings" by Wagner, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" by Dobrinski and "Shall We Dance?" from the King and I, arranged by Cook.

Stringing in a new year

Orchestra

The Campbellsville University Orchestra is composed of undergraduate and graduate students, as well as members of the community. One night a week they come together to rehearse, and they hold a formal concert once every semester on the CU campus.

The orchestra has grown tremendously since the fall semester of 1998, adding new members every semester, said Dr. Lisa McArthur, director. According to McArthur, the string section has increased by 40 percent and the wind section has increased by 70 percent, a trend that the School of Music hopes will continue.

One of the most incredible accomplishments that the orchestra achieved this year was that the string section was featured on a recent recording of Ming Ke, a virtuoso

Pipa artist, said McArthur.

"This year, the Wind Ensemble included the best of the best from Campbellsville University," said Dr. David McCullough, director. "I was extremely pleased with the wind and percussion instrumentalists, as they contributed greatly to the performances by the entire group."

According to McCullough, the ensemble performs primarily grade IV band works and includes members from the student body, faculty and staff of Campbellsville University, as well as members from the local community.

Chorale hits the road

University Chorale

The 1999-2000 school year offered several travel engagements for the 30 members of the Campbellsville University Chorale.

The students, under the leadership of Dr. J. Kenneth Martin, professor of music, performed a total of nine programs, including two extra concerts with a keyboard ensemble. It was with this ensemble that the chorale was conducted by someone other than Martin.

Susan Ogilvy conducted the Campbellsville University Chorale as they performed two of her own pieces.

During the fall, the group performed at convocation and took a fall weekend tour to Lexington, Ky.

During spring break, the chorale traveled to Florida for the group's annual tour and finished the semester by singing at commencement May 6, 2000.

"This year's chorale worked especially hard," said Dr. J. Kenneth Martin. "Because of their hard work, it paid off during our many varied programs."

Band is successful

Marching Band

The Campbellsville University Tiger Marching Band had another very successful season in 1999, once again handling a difficult program of music and challenging drill in superb fashion, according to Dr. David McCullough, director of bands.

"Our schedule was one of the most varied ever, including some of the most exciting home football games we've seen in quite awhile," said McCullough. "We participated in several fantastic exhibition performances at Taylor County and Class AA Regionals, the Campbellsville Christmas Parade, plus an overnight trip to Lexington for a televised appearance in the Downtown Lexington Christmas Parade."

"On average, this was a very young band with lots of freshmen and sophomores shouldering some heavy responsibilities," McCullough said. "However, they all did a magnificent job, which bodes well for the future of this great organization."

Maple Trail 2000 Staff

From the Editor

Taking the next step is no easy task.

It is a struggle against deadlines and pressure, last minute changes and budget cuts, compromises and sacrifices. It is a blow to the spirit when told you can't create your dream, and a renewal of the mind when you accomplish what was never expected. And here, in your hands, in this book, it is finished.

I brought to the table ideas and knowledge of a completely different realm than the editors before, the staff and advisers brought experience and understanding beyond my years, and you - the people - brought to us a dynamic and ever-changing subject for which it was our task to chronicle. And all these things, these basic elements, resulted in the Maple Trail 2000, your yearbook.

I use this little space in your book to thank all those involved - those featured on this two-page spread and those who helped at night asking for no recognition at all. I thank the school for allowing me to use my talents and abilities to give back a little something to be kept forever. And I thank the advisers, Joan McKinney and Cheri Glass, for keeping me in check and not letting me get in over my head with wild dreams and ideas.

This book is completed with the hope that it has exceeded your expectations, your memories on printed pages for your review. It is my hope that the one, solid goal we had kept in mind throughout this book - to chronicle for you your tears and laughter, your joy and disappointment and your love and victory here at Campbellsville University. Thank you for being a part of the 1999-2000 school year.

Commencement

Campbellsville University graduated 286 students Saturday, May 6 on the football field, one of the few times an outdoor ceremony has been held.

Dr. Bill F. Mackey, executive director of the Kentucky Baptist Convention, received an honorary doctorate of divinity.

One student, Jason Owen Green, a senior football captain from Dalton, Ga., received his degree posthumously. His parents, Thomas Green of Tennessee and Gail Panzica from Dalton, Ga., accepted the diploma in his honor. His degree would have brought the total of graduates to 287.

Campbellsville's 286 graduates included those receiving: 63 associate degrees; 24 bachelor of arts degrees; six bachelor of music degrees; 163 bachelor of science degrees; 11 bachelor of social work degrees; 18 master of arts in education degrees; and one master of music in church music degree.

Valedictorians of the 2000 graduating class, all of whom had perfect 4.0 grade point averages, were: Jason Travis Ash of Eastview, Ky.; Joshua Douglas Bunch of Bardstown, Ky.; Corrie Renee Riner Dyer of Louisville, Ky., formerly of Campbellsville, Ky.; William Clay Smith of Cox's Creek, Ky.; and Abigail Ruth Whitley of Paducah, Ky.

Salutatorians, who had 3.974 grade averages, were: Naomi Rachel Rinehold of Philomath, Oregon, and Michael Lee Neal of Madisonville, Ky.

Mr. and Miss Campbellsville

This year's Mr. and Miss Campbellsville are graduates Jason David Hall and Farrah Shae Sullivan.

Hall, a political science major, was 1999-2000 Student Government Association president, founder of the Pre-Law Society and the chair for College Republicans. He was awarded the Rotary Award by the Campbellsville Rotary Club, and he was given the Political Science Award by Campbellsville University faculty. Hall also graduated magna cum laude.

"Being selected Mr. Campbellsville by the faculty is definitely the highest honor I have ever received," Hall said. "It was the perfect ending to a tremendous experience at CU."

Sullivan, an education major, has been named to two NAIA All-American teams, the 2000 NAIA Division I Women's Basketball All-American Scholar Athlete Team and the 2nd Team NAIA Division I Women's Basketball All-American Team. She was awarded the Double A (Academic & Athletic) Award by Campbellsville University's Alumni Association, as well as being placed in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." She graduated cum laude.

When asked about the honor of being named Miss Campbellsville, Sullivan said, "There are so many other deserving ladies in our senior class that it is an honoring and humbling experience to represent the class of 2000."

Memorial Page

Campbellsville University experienced a loss Sept. 19, 1999 with the death of senior Tiger football defensive captain Jason Owen Green of Dalton, Ga., in a single vehicle collision.

Tiger Head Football Coach Ron Finley said, "He was the best. He was a young man who had his priorities straight in life. He was a devout Christian who loved his family very much. Jason was also a vital member of this football program. He was the kind of person who never complained and always gave more than what you asked. Our team will greatly miss him, as we all deeply loved him."

Green was honored with a memorial service at Tiger Stadium, and his parents accepted his bachelor's degree posthumously.

David W. Fryrear Sr., director of athletics at Campbellsville University from 1996 to 1999, died Aug. 15, 1999 from injuries he received in a boating accident at Green River Lake in July.

Fryrear was beginning his fourth year at CU as offensive coordinator for the Campbellsville University Tiger Football Team.

Former President Dr. Kenneth W. Winters said, "Dave has been a strong and dedicated manager for the Campbellsville University Athletic program, as well as a supporter of the institution in general. He has long been recognized as a strong Christian educator, and we have indeed been fortunate to have him serve as a vital role model for Campbellsville University."

Colophon

The 2000 Maple Trail was published by the great folks at Taylor Publishing Company in Dallas, Texas. One thousand one hundred and fifty copies of the Maple Trail, volume 72, were published. The 9 x 12-inch book contains a whopping 200 pages of hard work and dedication for you to remember this school year by.

The cover is hard-bound, on 160-point binder board. It was designed by Aaron Linne in a matter of moments when we realized we were late turning it in. The material family is Frontier, the color is maroon. The silkscreen is my favorite silkscreen color - and yours - silver 915. Who doesn't love it?

Body copy is 12 point Eric; captions are 10 point Times Roman, and photo credits are 8 point Times Roman. Headlines are a huge 52 point Nouveau, except for when we didn't want them to be, such as on divider pages. Subheads are 30 point Nouveau Italic, for your viewing enjoyment. This publication was submitted on 3.5" disks to Taylor Publishing using Taylor Publishing's very own UltraVision software.

Photographs were taken by the Office of Public Relations and Marketing, as well as faculty, staff and students from Campbellsville University.

Two students, yearbook editor Aaron Linne and photographer George Allen, were given performance grants in return for their contribution to the yearbook process. All other workers on the yearbook were work-study students, interns or volunteers of the Office of Public Relations and Marketing of Campbellsville University.

If you're still reading this, I'm impressed. I guess you must be a yearbook editor or something...

Student classifications were determined by records from the Office of Student Records. Thank them, not us. They helped a lot this year - good work down there! The Office of Information Services provided assistance with network and personal computer problems.

As has been said in previous yearbooks, we thank the Taylor software support center in Dallas for helping us throughout the year with our questions and problems. We also appreciate the nice and well-mannered Jerry Steely, our customer representative at Taylor.

Hugh Black, our local Taylor representative and friend, is always available for a good joke and a comment toward staff member Richard Blake about England. He knows his stuff inside and out, and we thank him for helping us out all year long by catching our mistakes before they were sent off. That, and the food he'd bring.

I also want to thank the entire PR office for putting up with my oddities and Chris Jericho action figure. I would also like to thank my friends, family, roommates, the Armada, HHH, God and Sega of America for helping me remain stable and entertained while putting in so many hours of work to complete this book.

The Maple Trail is free to all full-time Campbellsville University students. We greatly appreciate the school's financial commitment to allow us to present this yearbook free of charge to all those whose memories are held within it.

Hope you enjoy reading this book as much as we have making it.

— Aaron Linne
